

Salpa Class – Week commencing 26.02.18

This week, Year 6 have worked their socks off while enjoying a very successful World Book Week. They have had the chance to listen to other teachers read their favourite books (making a change from listening to me!). On Thursday, the children had a wonderful opportunity to become engineers for the day: having to navigate through tricky terrains to provide essential supplies to those who need it.

Here are some pictures of the children in action.
